CANNED GOODS CONFUSION

Canned goods confusion has a logical explanation. There's an oversupply now. The National Canners association, for instance, pleads for a four-month holiday on rationing. A representative of one large chain store says: There has been a definite slowdown in buying of canned vegetables the past three months. Many housewives, he adds, had built up stocks of canned foods rather than waste good things. Key to today's surplus was last year's huge home canning which added an estimated 170 million cases of fruits and vegetables to the commercial canners' 185 million cases for civilians.

There may be too little later. An American Institute of Food Distribution survey recently found that acreage of vegetables for commercial canners will be 6 per cent less this year. Canners fear price ceilings and the current oversupply may discourage big 1944 packs.

As our armed forces abroad increase in number and more and more countries must be fed, the government plans to take more food. This year it seeks half as many vegetables as they put up in 1942-1943 about 70 per cent as much fruit. —Wall Street Journal.

A KILLER PREPARES

In answer to an ad in the local newspaper, for someone to rid his store of rats, a disreputable-looking man walked into the store and announced to the proprietor that he was the world's champion rat-killer. "First, I must have a pound of cheese, the 'killer' declared. "That all?" asked the storekeeper. "Nope," answered the "killer," "I must have a quart of whiskey." When this was provided, the "killer" spoke briskly: "Now show me the cellar." An hour elapsed, and then the rat-killer staggered up the stairs and led headlong into the store. His face red, eyes glaring, he scrambled to his feet, and shaking his fists in defiance of the world, he shouted: "Why! I'm ready! Bring on your rats!" —Jacksonville Times-Union.

SORT OF HOLY

"I say, Pete, your girl looked quite tempting in that sort of Biblical gown last night." "What do you mean, Biblical gown?" "Oh, you know. Sort of low and behold!" —Cleveland News.

POST-WAR NIGHTMARE

Post-war-planning being the precarious thing that it is, the General Electric people gave us quite a start the other day with the announcement of a new electric motor they have developed. It weighs seven pounds, is rated at three horsepower, can be held in the palm of the hand, and operates at the speed of 120,000 revolutions per minute. If an automobile's wheel turned that fast it would move along at the spanking rate of 10,000 miles an hour.

The thought of this little gadget turned loose upon an eager, gape-struck public was appalling. We could imagine it hitched to a washing machine and tearing the stoutest shirt to ravelings; or to an electric fan that might just blow down one wall of the house. We envisioned the frightful lacinations that would follow this motor's installation in electric razors; the mangled rugs and splintered floors if it were put in a vacuum sweeper; the blizzards of eggs and whipping cream if it ran the electric mixer. And then there was the horrid thought of our electric refrigerators freezing to the dizzy tune of 120,000 r.p.m., and visiting upon our civilization an indoor ice age.

Just as the imagination staggered on the brink of collapse, we found a comforting and hitherto overlooked statement: "Motors of this type will not be available for general use." So bring on your post-war problems. Nothing scares us now. —NEA Editorial.

CURRENT HISTORY, TOO

"My wife always becomes historical when I stay out late."

"You mean hysterical."

"No, historical. She digs up my past."

—Breakfast Briefs.

EXPENSIVE RATS

Out of 853 large buildings inspected in a metropolitan county during the first 11 months of 1943, seven hundred were found to be infested by rats. Authorities said that before or after the check by the city food and drug chief, most of the owners of those buildings had begun definite efforts at rat control and extermination. But 50 owners had to be ordered to do something.

One chain grocery store said its food loss from rats came to $25 a day. Where food was not entirely eaten up, it was fiddled at or spoiled.

Meat losses at one establishment were about a year, 34,000 pounds of flour after the rats had been in it. Smaller amounts of destruction in private homes were not given, but they mount alarmingly.

Besides their injury of money-value and health, rats are expensive in other ways. They carry disease and lice. A rat-free town would have few epidemics. Rats are among the enemies within the gates which must be fought as vigorously as the enemies without. —Herald.

EXAMPLE FOR OTHERS

A few days ago this column noted that the City of Fort Myers had offered all vacant lots of which the town had become owner by the foreclosure route because of non-payment of taxes, in one huge block. Something more than seven hundred lots in a single sale. Bids were asked for and a satisfactory offer was received and the city is out of the real-estate business.

That is a situation the remainder of Florida's cities should achieve as quickly as possible. Private ownership of vacant lots is other really means live parcels on the tax list, whereas the reverse is true when the property is owned by the municipality. —Brandt Herald.

CIGARETTE SHORTAGE LOOMS

Americans, with some assistance from the department of agriculture, are slowly but surely smoking themselves out of their favorite cigarette habits and, quite possibly, into tobacco rationing.

Last year, cigarette companies dug into their shrinking stocks of aged leaf for between 270 million and 300 million more pounds of tobacco than they were able to buy. In terms of cigarettes this adds up to a deficit of between 86 billion and 90 billion smokes.

Tobacco production in 1943 was limited by government regulations designed to bolster prices to growers. Permissible acreage has been lifted 20 per cent this year but the agriculture department quite frankly doesn't think that tobacco farmers will be able to raise what they are allowed, because food crops are now competing for both land and labor.

This situation can have but two possible results:

First, the blend and quality of cigarettes, as the government's bureau of agriculture economics recently warned, may change as makers are forced to use greener and greener tobacco, or Second, manufacturers will limit output to the levels permitted by their property aged stocks, rationing their customers. The R. Reynolds company, maker of the "Camel" brand, already has elected this alternative.

Only the huge supplies of tobacco stored in company warehouses to mature (leaf normally is aged for two to three years before use in cigarettes) has staved off rigid rationing before now. But the tobacco companies are well aware that the process of removing from leaf designed for later use can go on only so long. —Wall Street Journal.

WHAT A COUNTY!

Collier county is the darndest county you ever heard of, Florida's first oil was found in that county several months ago. People naturally expected a wild oil boom. It didn't happen. The oil people already have leases on a million acres surrounding the well. There was nothing to speculate on.

Collier county was founded by Baron Collier, the street-car advertising magnate. He died leaving splendid management of his lands and county. D. Grant Copeland being the head man. Next to unified management biggest reason for the county success is absence of a myriad of overlapping political units. Collier just doesn't bother to incorporate towns, special drainage districts, etc., like most counties.

Its current report to its "stockholders" (taxpayers) by the county board contains some interesting facts. For instance, the 1911 legislature provided a liberal delinquent tax compromise plan for Everglades drainage district, which sprawls over 11 counties and whose affairs had been in a state of debt and confusion for a decade. While the other counties went wrangling on, in and out of court, Collier taxpayers 100 per cent compromised their taxes and got them out of the way.

The 1943 legislature ordered counties to foreclose every piece of land tax delinquent for more than two years, take title, eventually sell the land. Most counties are now running huge newspaper advertisements of the delinquent properties. Collier isn't. It doesn't have any tax delinquent land.

Current tax levy is only $50,979.33, with one exception lowest since the county was organized in 1922. And over half of that $25,359.59 was paid before the books were open, in other words before the tax was even due. Total tax delinquency for the entire 20 years life of the county is now only $70.42.

What a county! —Fuller's Florida Letter.

EXPLAINING FOR DADDY

"Daddy isn't home," said Junior answering the parson's knock on Sunday afternoon. "He went over to the golf club."

Then, noticing the shocked expression of the pastor's face, he added helpfully: "Oh, he isn't playing golf, of course. He just went over for a few highballs and pabst." —Louisville Courier Journal.

Circle Met Monday With Mrs. Stanley

The Pahokee Methodist Simon-Lair Circle met Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Ralph Stanley with Mrs. Stanley presiding at the business in the absence of the chairman.

The devotionals were led by Mrs. B. J. Schroder, assisted by Mrs. R. L. Kerr and Mrs. T. A. Ferguson.

A program on "Students in Our School" was presented by Mrs. Ferguson. Those taking part were Mrs. W. H. Lair, Mrs. O. B. Byrd, Mrs. W. H. Lair, Mrs. O. B. McClure and Mrs. Kerr.

Mrs. McClure reported that the circle had pledged $165 to date for with some pledges still out. Mrs. Kerr announced that the year's budget had been increased $25 for the Centennial Fund.

Appointed to place flowers in the church for the next four Sundays starting March 12 were Mrs. Joe Hatton, Mrs. R. J. Schroder, Mrs. R. J. Simonson and Mrs. L. W. Armstrong. Mrs. John T. Pickett was a visitor.

Registration books for the county products will close on March 6. After that date it will be necessary for those not registered to go to West Palm Beach to register.

To Hasten Victory

No American wants to go one minute beyond the time we can bring it to a victorious end. To hasten that victory—to save possibly the lives of millions of our boys on our far flung fronts—it is imperative that every American can do his part in the Second War Loan. There is an investment in it every man. The most you can do is little enough compared with the sacrifice offered by our boys in service. They give their lives —you lend your money.

Cinematic Chatter

By Malcolm Miller

I witnessed the screening of "So Proudly We Hail" this week and I can state without fear of contradiction it positively is Paramount's greatest picture of the year. Mere words cannot do justice to this splendid picture which will make its bow at the Prince Theatre with the Owl Show, Saturday and the Sunday-Monday run.

This inspiring story is the tale of those heroic "Angels of Mercy," the nurses who served so courageously on Bataan and Corregidor after the fall of Pearl Harbor. We have all read of these brave women and how eight succeeded in escaping from Corregidor minutes before the unpalatable Jap wrested it from us. Now, as if torn from the pages of a nurse's diary, that story comes to the screen vividly bringing to all of us a picture of the horrors of war that will not fade from our memory as long as we live.

The stars—Yes the featured players portray living, unforgettable characters masterfully. Claudette Colbert, Paulette Goddard and Veronica Lake are the principle "feminine" stars with George Reeves and Sunny Tufts heading the male stars.

The story has everything: drama, pathos, romance and comedy—the latter furnished by Sonny Tufts, who portrays one of the most lovable characters I've ever seen on the screen. To sum up the picture, it is a Must on your list.

For the Tuesday-Wednesday screening comes an oddie that has been re-issued and is going over with a bang in all movie houses where it has been exhibited. This one is "Crime School," which stars Humphrey Bogart and the Dead End Kids with a great supporting cast.

I recall this picture a long time back, and I remember how absorbing it was because it dealt with a subject that has always been close to the heart of those in this country who believe the welfare of the youth of our land—child delinquency. The picture tells a first story along these lines and with the stars Bogart and The Dead End Kids in the roles that best fit them I am sure you will enjoy every moment of it.

On the lighter side and for Thursday-Friday, comes "Honey-moon Lodge," a musical jangle that tells a little story of Spring, young love and stuff. This one stars Harriet Hilliard, David Bruce, June Vincent, with Ozzie Nelson and His Orchestra and the greatest adagio and acrobatic dancers on the American stage today, Velox and Yolanda.

The music in this picture is refreshing, the story plausible and delightful and the dialog smart and laugh provoking. So I'm sure you'll enjoy "Honey-moon Lodge."

Saturday and for those adventurous members of the Six Shooter Club comes an all star Western cast in a four star Western story "Man from Cheyenne." See you at the movies—Mal.

NOTICE TO TAXPAYERS.

April 1st is the last day on which citizens may file applications for Homestead Exemptions and returns covering Tangible and Intangible property.

We do not want any person who is justly entitled, to be deprived of his exemption and we do not desire to penalize anyone for failure to file his returns.

We urge that you attend to your tax matters without delay.

Our entire office personnel is at your disposal and we will gladly assist you in any way possible.
